

Qualified Default Investment Alternative Annual Notice FastTrack Staffing, Inc. 401(k) Plan

If you are an eligible Participant in the FastTrack Staffing, Inc. 401(k) Plan (the “Plan”), you may make contributions (called “salary deferrals”) directly from your paycheck into the Plan. The ability to make salary deferrals provides you with an easy method to save for retirement on a tax-deferred basis. If you make salary deferrals to the Plan, you will not be taxed on any earnings earned on those contributions until you withdraw those amounts from the Plan.

The amounts contributed to the Plan on your behalf will be invested in accordance with the Plan’s investment procedures. Generally, amounts contributed to the Plan are not subject to federal income tax at the time they are contributed. In addition, any earnings on those contributions are not subject to federal income tax until they are withdrawn from the Plan.

The Plan allows you to direct the investment of your Plan account within the available investment options under the Plan. If you do not elect to invest your Plan account, such amounts will automatically be invested in the Plan’s default investment fund. The following describes the characteristics of the Plan’s default investment fund:

AMERICAN FUNDS TARGET DATE SERIES-R2

Even if your Plan account is invested in the Plan’s default investment fund, you have the continuing right to change your default investment and elect to have your Plan account invested in any other available investment options under the Plan. You may elect to transfer amounts from the default investment fund without incurring a financial penalty.

To learn more about the available investments under the Plan, including additional information concerning the Plan’s default investment fund, please contact your Plan Administrator.

American Funds Target Date Retirement Series®

Target date investments

Goal

Depending on the proximity to its target date, the fund will seek to achieve the following objectives to varying degrees: growth, income and conservation of capital.

What you should know about the target date series

- The series offers a number of target date fund portfolios in five-year increments for retirement dates 2010 through 2065.
- Each fund is composed of a diverse mix of the American Funds and is subject to their risks and returns.
- The target date is the year that corresponds roughly to the year in which an investor is assumed to retire and begin taking withdrawals.
- You can choose a single target date investment option as your overall portfolio.
- You don't have to manage the portfolio. Capital Group investment professionals manage each target date fund's portfolio, moving it from a more growth-oriented focus to a more income-oriented focus as the fund gets closer to its target date.
- Investment professionals continue to manage each fund for approximately 30 years after its target date is reached.
- Although the target date funds are managed for investors on a projected retirement date time frame, the funds' allocation approach does not guarantee that investors' retirement goals will be met. In addition, contributions to a target date fund may not be adequate to reach your retirement goals.

Who is Capital Group?

Capital Group, home of American Funds, is one of the oldest and largest mutual fund families in the country. Since 1931, we've invested with a long-term focus and attention to risk – an investment style similar to that of most people saving for retirement.

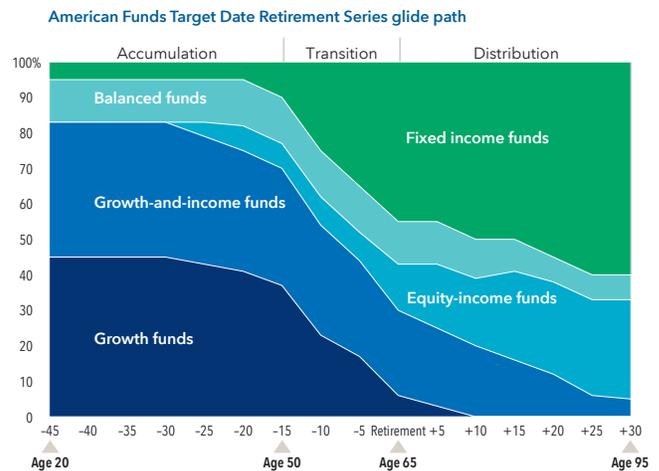

The target date fund portfolios

Made up of a mix of the American Funds, each target date fund serves as a single diversified retirement portfolio with an underlying approach aligned with the approximate year an investor is assumed to stop working and begin taking withdrawals.

The funds in this series attempt to balance investors' long-term needs for total return and stability. Based on their target retirement date, the funds incorporate varying degrees of risk. Each fund may include a mix of growth, growth-and-income, equity-income, balanced and fixed income funds (i.e., bond funds).

The chart below shows the anticipated shifts in each target date fund over time. As you can see, even into retirement a fairly substantial portion will remain invested in funds that hold stocks. With retirement lasting two or three decades for many people, an equity component can make sense, particularly in the early years of retirement.

Investment approach for target date funds

The target allocations shown are as of December 31, 2021, and are subject to the oversight committee's discretion. The investment adviser anticipates assets will be invested within a range that deviates no more than 10% above or below the allocations shown in the prospectus/characteristics statement. Underlying funds may be added or removed during the year. For quarterly updates of fund allocations, visit americanfundsretirement.com.

Investments are not FDIC-insured, nor are they deposits of or guaranteed by a bank or any other entity, so they may lose value.

A profile of a target date fund

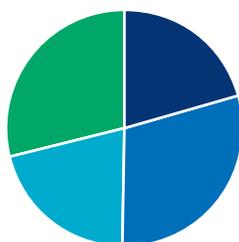

For an understanding of how a target date fund can serve as a complete portfolio, let's take a closer look at one fund – the 2030 Fund – and the resources Capital Group brings to bear in managing the series.

A single approach

The 2030 Fund may be appropriate for investors seeking:

- A portfolio of the American Funds designed for someone who plans to leave the workforce in or around 2030 and start withdrawing their money at that time.
- A prudent way to save for retirement in a single fund.
- An investment portfolio that adjusts over time to meet their changing needs.

Decide which fund might be right for you

Target date funds are designed for individuals who intend to retain assets in the fund past the designated target date and then gradually withdraw their assets over time.

Keep in mind that while the funds are designed to serve investors throughout the retirement income phase, you don't have to retain assets in the fund past the designated target date. Instead, you can move your money out of the target date fund and into other investments of your choosing.

Each target date fund is designed to act as a single diversified retirement portfolio, so you only need to select one. To determine which fund might be appropriate for you, see the table below.

You can estimate the investment expenses you're paying annually by multiplying your balance in a target date fund by the gross expense ratio. For example, if your fund balance is $1,000 and the fund's gross expense ratio is 1.10%, you'll pay approximately $11.00 a year in expenses.

Important information

Investment results assume all distributions are reinvested and reflect applicable fees and expenses. When applicable, investment results reflect expense reimbursements, without which results would have been lower and net expenses higher. Please see capitalgroup.com for more information. The investment adviser is currently reimbursing a portion of other expenses for American Funds 2065 Target Date Retirement Fund. Net expense ratios reflect the reimbursement, without which they would have been higher. The reimbursement will be in effect through at least January 1, 2023. The adviser may elect at its discretion to extend, modify or terminate the reimbursement at that time. Please see the fund's most recent prospectus for details.

The target date funds' risks are directly related to the risks of their underlying funds as described below.

Investing outside the United States involves certain risks, such as currency fluctuations, periods of illiquidity and price volatility, as more fully described in the prospectus. These risks may be heightened in connection with investments in developing countries.

Small-company stocks also entail risks, and they can fluctuate in price more than larger company stocks.

The return of principal for bond funds and for funds with significant underlying bond holdings is not guaranteed. Fund shares are subject to the same interest rate, inflation and credit risks associated with the underlying bond holdings. Investments in mortgage-related securities involve additional risks, such as prepayment risk, as more fully described in the prospectus.

Fund shares of U.S. Government Securities Fund are not guaranteed by the U.S. government.

Lower rated bonds are subject to greater fluctuations in value and risk of loss of income and principal than higher rated bonds.

We offer a range of share classes designed to meet the needs of retirement plan sponsors and participants. The different share classes incorporate varying levels of advisor compensation and service provider payments.

Investors should carefully consider investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. This and other important information is contained in the fund prospectuses and summary prospectuses, which can be obtained from a financial professional and should be read carefully before investing.
